

Leslie Solis

Dan and Phil are both my parents and children. (I'm kidding they're just my favorite youtubers.)

If I constantly "insult" you I either hate or like you.

I spend a lot of time on my phone, more than I probably should.

I can barely swim.
Sometimes I spell "barely " as barley.

Overthinking and panicking in really simple or stupid situations is something I do well.

I can go from happy to mad and mad to happy in about three seconds.

Sometimes I think I'm being mean but really I'm just honest.

I'd rather talk to my friends than family about myself.

My family was never even really close. We're only all together on Saturday and Sunday but even then we still separate, all though I never really minded.

I don't really like to share my feelings even though I tell a lot of people to do it.

Sometimes when I don't know what to do I do nothing at all, which really doesn't help.

People are usually surprised when I can speak spanish well since I don't really look hispanic.

Apparently black is a shade and not a color.

I'd rather not work for someone but I'd be a terrible boss.

Sometimes I have depressing and dark humour.

I'm typing this while hungry.

There's a nightmare from nine years that I still remember.
I happen to dwell on the past a lot.

Depending on the person I can get really uncomfortable when they touch me, even if they're my family.

I'm not really an affectionate person and I'm not really sorry about it.

If I call you trash don't get offended.

I probably call myself trash more than I should. Unlike most people I don't see how calling someone trash is a bad thing.

Being independant than dependant is better in my opinion.

If you need something done do it yourself because the person that you're depending on probably isn't going to put in as much effort as you would unless it's affecting them.

Horses and narwhals are cool animals.

Don't drink bleach life gets better.